

SEYMOUR DAILY REPUBLICAN

VOLUME XXXIV NO. 267

SEYMOUR, INDIANA, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1915

PRICE TWO CENTS

PAYMENTS UNDER BARRETT LAW DUE

Settlements for Public Improvements
Must be Paid Before
November 1.

PAID TO CITY TREASURER

About One Hundred Residents Paying for Sewerage and Street Improvements Under Law.

Settlements for public improvements that are payable under the provisions of the Barrett law are being made at the city treasurer's office.
The payments fall due the same as taxes and the full settlement must be made on or before the first Monday in November which this year comes on November 1. The treasurer's office has sent out statements to all property owners who accepted the Barrett Law. While this is not required by statute the practice has been followed here in order that none of the residents might overlook the semi-annual settlements.

There are about one hundred residents here who are paying for street or sewerage improvements under the Barrett law. Most of the accounts, however, are for the improvement of streets and have been opened during the last four years. The law provides that if the settlements are not made at the required date the treasurer is empowered to levy upon the property thus improved the same as in the case of delinquent taxes. No property in this city has ever been sold to satisfy such a settlement unpaid.

The Barrett law provides that one tenth of the total amount of the improvement cost shall be paid each year and the interest is paid at the second settlement. Some of the installments on the principal become due in the spring and others in the fall, depending upon the time when the work was received by the city.

The installment plan means a vast amount of work for the treasurer's office as a separate set of books is kept for such amounts. The funds that are received are turned directly over to the holder of the bonds and the coupons are given to the treasurer as receipts. Several years ago the accounts in some cities in Indiana became badly tangled as the money received under the law was confused with the city's accounts. Several cities lost considerable, but here the accounts have always been separate and no confusion has resulted. Most of the Barrett law bonds here have been sold by the contractors and the money is paid over to the holders.
The treasurer acts in the capacity of agent for the various property owners and receives no additional compensation.

Some of the settlements have been made and the balance will be paid before the close of next week, it is stated. Little trouble is experienced in collecting the installments as due as the residents are aware that the property may be levied on.

With the county taxes falling due on November 2 the taxpayer will be hard hit the first of next month.
The rush at the county treasurer's office has continued to-day and hundreds of dollars have been received. Beginning the first of next week the special telephone service at the county treasurer's office for the benefit of taxpayers who desire to find out the amounts due will be installed. The service is put in operation by the Brownstown Telephone Company which is a part of the Seymour Mutual Company.

M'WHORTER BENEFITS BY NEW COMPENSATION LAW

Seymour Man Who Had Hand Mashed Off Recently Awarded Allowance By Industrial Board.

James McWhorter, who recently suffered a mashed hand while working in the plant of the Seymour Mfg.
Co., will benefit by the new workmen's Compensation Act, which provides for employees who are injured in the performance of their duty. The state industrial board, which enforces the new law, and which met this week in Indianapolis, allowed McWhorter $5.50 a week for a period of 150 weeks, or an aggregate of $822. The awards are fixed by the board on a certain percentage of the average weekly earning of the employee.

McWhorter is the first employe in Seymour to receive the benefit of the new law. He was injured several weeks ago by having his hand caught in a machine he was operating. The hand was mashed so severely that it was necessary to ampu-tate it later.

Several other cases were disposed of by the board, including one accidental death and several minor settlements. Three deaths by electric shocks have been reported to the board within the last few days. One was at Kokomo, another at Lebanon,
and the third at Vincennes.

PENNSYLVANIA CO. WANTS TO KNOW ABOUT EXPENDITURES

Special Engineer Here Going Over Records to Ascertain Expenditures on Right of Way.

Special Engineer Waite, of the Pennsylvania Lines, is in the city delving into the records and books of the city clerk for the purpose of finding out the amount the company has expended here in the way of street improvements along their right of way since the incorporation of the city in 1865. He is being assisted in his work by City Clerk Johnson, and the records of the city for the past fifty years will be carefully gone over.

Mr. Waite says that there is no special significance attached to the investigation, which is being made but merely to determine the valuation of the company's property. The Interstate Commerce Commission is securing figures on the valuation of all companies to be available in the determining of tariff rates and other questions which come before the body and the Pennsylvania Co. is securing latest figures on its own property for its own benefit. Mr. Waite will return to the city Monday, when he hopes to complete his investigation, which requires some little time.

Attention, Eastern Star.

Members will meet promptly at 5:15 Monday evening at the hall, and promptly at 5:30 o'clock to accept the invitation of the Brownstown lodge to meet with them. All members are asked to be in hand promptly.

ing Franklin College, came down this

TOWN ELECTIONS WILL NOT BE HELD

Brownstown and Crothersville Officials May Hold Over for Two Years.

DEFECT IN RECENT STATUTE

Legislature Attempted to Amend Act of 1909 but Failed to Provide for Election.

Because of the recent opinion of Attorney-General Richard A. Milburn the town officers at Brownstown and Crothersville will hold over until their successors are elected and qualified which may be two years hence.
The council at Brownstown had called an election for Tuesday, November 2, but later an unofficial opinion from the attorney-general was issued and stated that there was some question as to whether or not such an election would be regular because of a defect in the 1915 act of the legislature which was passed with the purpose of amending the act of 1909.

The last legislature attempted to pass a law whereby some of the trustees in towns where all the officers went out of office at the same time would remain in office for two years longer. This was attempted so that there would always be two or more "holdovers" after each election. The act of 1909 uses the term "even number" of trustees and the last legislature attempted to amend the act
by changing the term to "uneven number."

The error in the 1911 and 1915 law,
was to amend the following provision:
"That in towns having an even number of trustees, one half of the trustees of any such town that receive the highest number of votes at the regular election in 1909, shall be regarded as elected thereto for a period of four years and the other half for a period of two years and in towns having an even number of trustees
one less than half of such trustees, receiving the highest number of votes shall serve four years and the remainder two years. Thereafter the term of office of all trustees shall be four years."

In amending the law of 1909 the last legislature enacted a statute which makes no provision for holding an election. Evidently the act was intended to provide for an election but the omission makes it null and void.

At Brownstown the office of three of the councilmen, the clerk, treasurer and marshal were to be filled at the election next month but they will hold over probably two years. At Croth-ersville the present officers will continue in office, it being decided that the act of 1915 was not regular.

At Westport, Jonesville and several other towns in this vicinity, however, elections will be held under the law of 1909.

SURETY OF PEACE BOND REQUESTED

Bride of Three Weeks in Jail at Brownstown Awaiting Trial Set for Monday Afternoon.

FILED BY HER SISTER-IN-LAW

Husband Has Also Instituted Proceeding for a Divorce Decree in Jackson Circuit Court.

Mrs. William Jones, a bride of three weeks, is in jail at Brownstown awaiting trial on a surety of peace proceeding which was filed by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ada Stewart. Mrs.
Jones, who was formerly a waitress
in a local hotel, will be tried Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Justice Mackey's court in Brownstown. She was arrested at her home near Slygo Hill late Friday afternoon by Marshal Russell, of Brownstown, and was placed in jail when she was unable to give bond.

The arrest of Mrs. Jones is one of a series of domestic troubles that have been coming rapidly during the past week. She was married in Scottsburg October 1 and after the marriage went to her husband's home near Slygo Hill on the Tampico road.
Her husband, it is stated, recently bought the interest of his sister, Mrs.
Stewart, in the farm where he lives.
Mrs. Stewart has been living with them.

Last Tuesday Jones filed a complaint in the Jackson circuit court asking for a decree of divorce from his wife. In the complaint he alleged that on one day last week he gave her $10 and purchased a ticket to Mitchell for her, that she went to Mitchell and remained there for several days.
He further alleges in his complaint that on Saturday night he and his wife came to Brownstown and that she refused to walk up the street with him as he was carrying a coal oil can which he intended to have refilled.
He alleges that he left her while he purchased the coal oil and when he returned to her she was enraged because he had not purchased something for her.

It is further stated in the complaint that on Sunday he and his sister had invited guests to their house and that the defendant refused to prepare the meal for them. It is stated that after she refused to comply with the request she took a gun and went out into the woods. The divorce was filed while Mrs. Jones was in Mitchell but she returned to Jones' home upon her return from that place. She had been living there until her arrest Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Jones is said to have told Marshal Russell that she did not want to leave her home because "they" would never let her return afterwards. When she was brought to Brownstown she was unable to give bond and will be held in jail
until her trial Monday.

In the surety of peace proceedings filed Friday by Mrs. Stewart she alleges that she is afraid of Mrs. Jones and asks the court to place her under a bond that she will not personally injure her.

Peru, Ind., October 23.—While Louis Cole and Miss Ella McCaffrey,

was completely destroyed with a loss of $30,000. The cause is unknown.
Cole is the son of Mrs. Louis Cole.
Mrs. Cole is the daughter-in-law of J. O. Cole, head of a lumber and coal firm with big interests in Chicago and West Virginia.

News of the fire was not allowed to mar the wedding ceremony and the bride and groom left on a trip to Eastern points, ignorant of the fire.
The wedding, the most elaborate ever seen here, was celebrated in the Catholic church. Mrs. Cole is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mc-Caffrey.

CONDITION OF ALICE WEST WAS UNIMPROVED TO-DAY

Young Lady Shot at Indianapolis
When She Called at Home of Former Suitor.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, October 23.—The condition of Alice West was reported unimproved to-day. She was shot two days ago by James Dailey.

Conflicting reports as to the cause of the shooting left the cause unsolved to-day. The police reported that Dailey had confessed shooting the girl following a compact with his father to rob her and dispose of the body. Edward Dailey, the father, today gave out a statement in which he said he believed his son was insane at the time. He denied any part in the attack of Dailey on his former sweetheart.

Miss West formerly lived in Columbus.

INVESTIGATION OF COMMERCE RAIDER

Charged That German Ship is Abroad
on Seas with Missing Officers
From Interned Ship.

CUSTOM OFFICIALS ON ALERT

Under International Laws Vessel is Subject to Capture and Hanging Awaits Crew.

By United Press.

New York, October 23.—Investigation of the charge that the American steamship Zealanda which left Pensacola, Fla., October 7, ostensibly for Tampico, really is now a German commerce raider and has on board the officers who disappeared recently from the Kron Prinz Wilhelm, interned at Norfolk, was being pushed by custom officials today.

Washington, October 23.—Evidence seemingly to corroborate information given New York custom officials concerning the steamship Zealanda has been obtained from the justice department. Complete corroboration means that there is a German pirate ship abroad on the seas subject to capture by any other vessel able to effect it and with hanging awaiting all members of the crew.

Agents of the justice department at New York and Pensacola had reported strange maneuvers by the Zealanda before a New York ship broker related his information. His declaration that the Zealanda is now a commerce raider manned by the missing officers of the Kron Prinz Wilhelm is supported in part by the agents' reports. They say that the Zealanda enroute from New York to Tampico, called at Pensacola and changed her crew. She was then under command of a German captain and the crew was composed of German sympathizers.

ON RIGHT THINKING

Matter That is of the Highest Importance to the Individual, Here and Hereafter

All beginnings of manifestation are in consciousness. The self or ego thinks about that of which he is conscious and thereby sets the creative forces in motion which will produce the corresponding condition or object on its respective plans of expression, either mental, moral or physical. It is, therefore, of the greatest importance that one should become conscious of that which is true, right and good in order to think in a way to produce right and harmonious conditions. After becoming conscious of the truth and reality of being, one should gain control of one's mind and think thoughts that are according to the truth which has been learned. It follows that if we are as we think, by taking thought—that is, by taking control of our minds and thinking—we can make ourselves whatever we will to be and do whatever we will to do.

If one desires to express the good, the true, the perfect, it is necessary to have and to hold that ideal in mind, as the plan or pattern which is to be wrought out in expression. The ego or self is the architect who creates or formulates in the mental substance of his mind the plan or pattern of the thing which is to be put into tangible shape or condition. After the plan is formed, the builder's energies set to work to construct the building or object, whatever it may be, according to the plan which has been designed by the master builder or architect. It will be copied exactly by the creative energies, which are the builders. Therefore, if the plan is defective in any of its departments, the manifested structure will be imperfect and unsatisfactory. Hence, it is of the utmost importance that the architect should give sufficient thought and consideration to the formation of the design which is to be wrought out in manifestation to have a satisfactory result when it is completed. Developing souls are like children playing with building blocks. A block house is built by the child, and then knocked down because it does not suit his fancy. He then tries again, and again sweeps the blocks over with his hands, that he may begin and build them up once more, and so continues until the result is satisfactory to him, when he ceases his endeavor for the time being, until the desire to create again takes possession of his mind, when he will repeat the process. We thoughtlessly imagine that the child is merely being amused by the play, not realizing that the creative power is seeking expression through his instrumentality—and that the self of him, through practice and experience, is learning to build or express the perfect ideal which is latent within his soul, and which is ceaselessly seeking expression.

When Problem Simplifies.

When the soul has developed to the stage where it becomes conscious of its constitution and destiny, it can consciously co-operate with the law of its being, and then become more successful and make more rapid progress in the evolution of its latent and divine possibilities. His affairs and conditions will then become more harmonious because of the unity of his will with the Supreme will in the working out of his destiny. All opposition will cease for he will no longer be in an attitude of resistance to that will. He will go with instead of against it, and the living of his life will become a much easier problem.

He will then consciously and wisely use his creative powers in a way to produce right and harmonious results and health, prosperity, peace and happiness will be his legitimate portion, because of his having created them.

Make Own Environment.

The things which he creates rightfully belong to him. They are his own possessions which none can take from him. Thus, you will see, by the light which the Truth gives, that we are the master of our fate and can make our environment what we will. We can have our heaven right here, and now, on earth, if we will make it, or we can have the opposite state of affairs—ignorance, darkness, confusion, friction, antagonism—hell.

We are free to choose which we will have. There is no power in heaven or on the earth that can interfere with our freedom of will unless we let it do so. The divinity and sacredness of the will is recognized by Deity itself, and all are left free to use it as they choose. Through the freedom of choice the soul learns and develops its consciousness and powers, and finally becomes a master with knowledge gained through experience. He will reap the consequences of his use of free will in choosing and thus will learn how to govern and use it wisely through the results which follow.

All Responsible.

Human suffering and human sorrow all came because sometime, somewhere, some soul forgot God; and if you or I forget him, somewhere in the future someone will suffer for that sin.—Rev. L. E. Johnston.

It Pays to Dress Well

Attire may not make the man, but it sometimes does a lot towards making him successful. The well garbed man commands favorable attention from his business associates.

His clothes are an asset. Dressing well, does not mean dressing foppishly or extravagantly.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W, Notre Dame, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urinal difficulties by day or night.

RAILROADS AND RUM.

A certain railroad, says Colliers', announces with pardonable pride that it carried last year on its 26,000 miles of track 188,111,876 passengers, and not one of these passengers was killed in a train accident. "That," says the Canton (O.) Daily News, "is one of the biggest zeroes, one of the mightiest noughts, that the year has to boast of." Another newspaper, the Butler (Pa.) Citizen, writes: "There is no doubt whatever that this condition was rendered possible only by the company insisting on strict sobriety on the part of its employees. With drunken engineers, drunken dispatchers, and drunken conductors, accidents and deaths would have been common. Drinking on the part of employees used to cost their employers a lot of money one way or another. But nowadays it only costs the railroad man his job."

DRUNKENNESS AND DIVORCE.

A home a day, it is stated, was wrecked by divorce last year in Chicago. A Chicago newspaper, investigating as to what extent alcohol is responsible, gives a summary of its findings. Habitual drunkenness, it says, is the charge in 152 of these divorce cases. To this charge others were added in 124 cases. In 99 of these (in which the charge was drunkenness and cruelty), women were the complainants. These two charges appear together more frequently than any other one combination of charges on which divorces were granted. The cases tabulated were tried before judges of the superior court. Others which came before the circuit court were not tabulated.

THE SOCIALIST VIEW.

The special committee appointed by the Socialists a year ago to study the liquor problem says in its report, presented May 13 to the national committee in Chicago that "total abstinence is the only absolutely safe and wise course to pursue" in view of the disastrous effects of excessive drinking.

Many of the authorities quoted in the report in condemnation of beer are German. Among alcohol's recorded opponents are 800 German and Austrian doctors. One statement is that "beer is not the harmless beverage many of the German people think it is."

"The Socialist party," declares the report, "cannot remain indifferent or inactive, but should take a definite position and active part in combating the evils of alcoholism."

DECREASE IN WHISKY.

The following figures are from the Wall Street Journal: Production of whisky in Kentucky in January was 1,980,000 gallons, against 6,102,452 gallons in January, 1914; production in Pennsylvania was 1,073,808 gallons in January, against 1,552,445 a year ago, and in Maryland 506,919 gallons, against 918,582. Whisky bottled in bond in January was 691,508 gallons, as compared with 928,187 in January, 1914. The Kentucky decrease for one month was 66 2-3 per cent, the Pennsylvania decrease practically 33 per cent and the Maryland dealers over 40 per cent.

ENLIGHTENED PRACTICE.

The remarkable change in the attitude of the medical profession toward the use of alcohol in the treatment of disease is shown by the records of the Cincinnati hospital, an institution among the greatest of its class in the world and located in one of the whisky centers of the United States. For the year 1914 only seven pints of intoxicants were used for its patients for the entire twelve months, while during six months of 1898, although the capacity of the hospital was considerably less, the records show the use of more than seventeen hundred pints of whisky, beer, wine and gin.

A PROGRESSIVE DISEASE.

Families that serve wine at meals are doing the greatest injustice to their children, for instead of allowing them to drink anything but nonintoxicating drinks they are starting that progressive disease that may end in their ultimate death or disgrace. To see a beautiful young girl drink a cocktail or even a glass of sherry offends health aristocrats, for they know that poison is contained in every drop. The misfortune of all poison taking lies not only in the always advancing appetite but in the always receding will.—Lillian Russell.

LIQUOR AS HOME WRECKER.

The searchlight is being thrown upon the alcoholic question from every angle of vision. Chicago Herald has investigated from the matrimonial angle. To what extent is alcohol responsible for the wrecking of houses by divorce? Answering this question for Chicago—which city, it is said, had a divorce a day last year—the Herald gave a tabulated report. Its findings show among other things that the two charges of habitual drunkenness and cruelty are more frequent in divorce cases than any other one combination of charges.

VODKA AND WAR.

"The greatest single sentence ever uttered for prohibition," Charles Johnson asserts in the American Review of Reviews, came from the lips of M. Kharitonoff, controller of the Russian treasury, speaking before the budget committee of the Russian parliament. It ran thus: "With the war and without vodka Russia is more prosperous than with vodka and without the war."

ALCOHOLIC HARD TO HANDLE.

The alcoholic always does badly under surgery. In the first place it takes a great deal more anesthetic to get him ready for the operation, and that adds to his risk. In the second place, he is much more likely to have diseased kidneys and liver, and that adds yet more to his risk, and thirdly, the risk of insanity and of pneumonia after an operation is greater. The abstinent man and woman stand operations best.—Dr. Howard A. Kelly, Johns Hopkins University.

JANE ADDAMS HAS VIEWS OF HER OWN

Declares Members of Various Diplomatic Corps are not Fitted to Talk Peace.

SAYS OPINIONS ARE PARTIAL

Scientists and Men of Commercial Attainments Ought to do Work, She Asserts.

(By United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Broad-minded men of great mental attainments whose lives have been devoted to the betterment of humanity, are the men Jane Addams would have upon the World's Peace Commission in place of diplomats and international lawyers.

Miss Addams, whose chief work for the past year has been the promulgation of European peace through personal interviews with the warring government's heads, conference with President Wilson and work at the International Peace Congress in San Francisco, outlined for the United Press her vision of the body of men which she hopes will some day rule supreme over the destiny of nations. Her opinion, she said, also is the general opinion in Europe, Miss Addams said:

"We must have men whose minds are trained to visualize not only the needs of Germany or America but of all nations.

"Men like Marconi, and others whose entire lives have been devoted to benefiting humanity, are the ones best fitted to consider problems of international protent."

Miss Addams then referred to the diplomats and continued:

"When universal peace is attained, it will not be through the medium of men whose lives have been devoted to professional war making.

"The idea behind the organization of the commission recently appointed by Secretary Daniels to aid the army and navy in problems of national defense could be applied to the organization of a World's Peace Commission.

"The geniuses of every country, the scientists and men of commercial attainments, could be selected and to them delegated the power of the settlement of international dispute. These men would be broad enough to grasp the needs of every nation and unselfish enough to act in the interests of all peoples.

"Future generations would benefit by the work of such a body as this. The high ideals and nobleness of purpose concentrated in the commission would be reflected throughout the world.

"Reports of my recent utterances regarding diplomacy and diplomats have been misinterpreted. It is not my intention to 'slam' these government agents. But it is my firm belief that the old days of secret diplomatic conferences with each government seeking through its representative to gain selfish ends should come to an end to be replaced by singleness of purpose to benefit all mankind through universal peace."

Mrs. Oscar Stevens and children and Mrs. Gleason, of Lima, O., who have been visiting relatives in Indianapolis, were here this morning on their way to Mitchell to visit with relatives. Mrs. Stevens formerly lived in Seymour.

EIGHT STATES WILL VOTE ON NOVEMBER 2

Governors Are to be Elected in Four of Them—Important Issues in the Others.

Eight states, New York, Massachusetts, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Ohio and Mississippi, will hold elections on Tuesday, Nov. 2.

In four of these states, Massachusetts, Maryland, Kentucky and Mississippi, Governors are to be elected; in six states, New York, Massachusetts, Maryland, New Jersey, Kentucky and Mississippi, the state legislatures, in whole or in part, are to be elected, and in five states, New York, Massachusetts, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Ohio, important constitutional issues are to be decided.

With a few local exceptions, in fact, these constitutional questions will be the dominant issues on election day, including as they do such fundamental matters as woman suffrage, municipal home rule, prohibition, state income taxes, referendum plans and some lesser reforms.

The woman suffrage question will come up for decision in New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, which will furnish, in point of population, the greatest test the suffrage issue has ever had in the United States. New Jersey, the first state in the East to vote on equal suffrage, defeated the proposition at a special election given over exclusively to the suffrage question on Oct. 19. While it has been held by some political observers that the result of the test in New Jersey would be reliably indicative of what might be expected in the three bigger neighboring states, the suffrage leaders have not been discouraged by the big majority with which the issue was defeated in New Jersey, and look forward to the bigger test with confidence.

The importance of this test is indicated by the fact that, in point of population, the states of New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, which will vote on suffrage Nov. 2, include more than 20,000,000 people—a fifth of the population of the entire United States—and these 20,000,000 are practically double the population of the states in which equal suffrage has as yet been fully achieved.

STATE CHARITIES WORKERS WILL MEET AT RICHMOND

Dr. A. W. Millis, Hanover College President, to Speak at Annual Conference.

The twenty-fourth annual session of the Indiana State Conference of Charities and Correction will be held in Richmond, October 30, 31 and November 1 and 2. There will be many interesting and educational addresses given at this conference but upon the evening of November 1 a program will be given that will be of special interest to rural life.

Dr. A. W. Millis President of Hanover College and chairman of the committee on Rural Life, will give an address. Addresses will also be given by Dr. J. N. Hurty, Secretary of the Indiana State Board of Health, Dr. W. F. King, the assistant secretary, and W. R. Butler, Madison county agent.

EVENTS IN THE WAR ONE YEAR AGO TODAY

By United Press.

France admitted German advances near Dixmude and La Basse, but claimed an Allies advance east of Nieuport and the taking of roads commanding the valley of the Aisne.

English monitors aided the Belgian army's assault on the German right wing, repulsing Nieuport attacks, London claimed. The British destroyer Badger rammed and sank a German U boat off the Dutch coast, the British said. Canadian expeditionary troops replaced Hindus in Egypt, Berlin heard. General advances east of Ypres and southwest of Lillie and the crossing of the Yser canal in violent fighting, were Germany's claims for the day. Vienna claimed the Austrians permitted the Russian to cross the San, then defeated them, inflicting heavy losses.

Russia claimed the Austro-Germans were driven back 40 miles from Warsaw and continued to retreat, offering feeble resistance.

When Baby Has the Croup.

When a mother is awakened from sound sleep to find her child who has gone to bed apparently in the best of health struggling for breath, she is naturally alarmed. Yet if she can keep her presence of mind and give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy every ten minutes until vomiting is produced, quick relief will follow and the child will drop to sleep to awaken in the morning as well as ever. This remedy has been in use for many years with uniform success. Obtainable everywhere.

TELEGRAPH IS GIVEN AS NEW "CAUSE" OF WAR

Lord Bryce, Former Ambassador to America, Blames Rapid Communication.

By United Press.

London, Oct. 23.—A new "cause" of the European war, and one of the most original yet given, has been propounded by Lord Bryce, former British ambassador at Washington, who attributes the conflict to the invention of the telegraph. In an address before the British Academy, Lord Bryce thus put the blame on telegraphy.

"In the twelve fatal days between July 23 and August 4th last year, there was no time for reflection. Telegrams between seven capitals flew hither and thither like swift arrows crossing one another; and it would have needed a mind of more than human amplitude and energy to grasp and correlate all the issues involved and to foresee the results that would follow the various lines of action possible in a game so complicated.

"Even the intellect of a Caesar or a Bonaparte would have been unequal to the task.

"Here the telegraph has worked for evil. Had the communications passed by written dispatches as they would have done eighty years ago, it is probable that war might have been avoided."

UNDERWATER WIRELESS IN NEWEST INVENTION

System to be Used by Submarines Being Perfected by Experts of Navy Department.

By United Press

Washington, October 23.—An underwater wireless telegraph system, said to be superior to any European device, is being perfected by the navy's experts, it was learned today. The device is to be kept for exclusive naval use for communication between submarines. Its development for battleships and other vessels is hoped for.

While the navy experimenters are keeping the details of the invention closely guarded it is known that steam is involved in the signal system. The sound waves are transmitted through the water by telegraphic code.

The living room and dining room were beautifully decorated in a color scheme of yellow and black with plenty of black cats, corn and fodder, suggestive of the approaching Halloween. The guests came masked and the host had some difficulty in guessing who his guests were for some time. A two course luncheon was served.

LOCAL SCHEDULE
BEING ARRANGED

Basket Ball Games Already Booked

With Washington, North Vernon and Southport.

REGULAR PRACTICE IS HELD

Predicted That High School Team

This Season Will be One of Best in Southern Indiana.

That the local high school will be represented this year by one of the strongest basket ball teams in southern Indiana, is the prediction of Coach W. G. Hendershot. The squad has been practicing for several weeks and it is probable that the team will be picked the first of next month. Coach Hendershot says there is some "likely" material in the squad and before the season ends he expects to capture several big victories. Attention is now being given to the schedule for the winter. Several games have already been arranged and the complete schedule will be announced within the next ten days or two weeks. One of the first games will be played with Southport on the local floor. The Southport boys will come here December 3 and a hard struggle is anticipated. The coach is endeavoring to schedule at least one game before that time and it is possible that arrangements will be made with Anstin.

Two games have already been scheduled with Washington. One will be played here on December 10 and the return game on the Washington floor is booked for the first of January. A couple of games will also be played with North Vernon this season. The first will be staged January 21 here. The second will be played at North Vernon. The local school and the North Vernon school have been enemies for several years—that is speaking in terms of basket ball—and the Seymour boys believe they will be able to take both the games this season. Other contests are being arranged.

Interest in high school basket ball has been increasing steadily for several years and last season the games here were largely attended. The district championship contests were held in this city and the local gymnasium was not large enough to accommodate the spectators who were anxious to witness them.

Quite a number of the high school boys are interested in basket ball and are out for practice. There are several competent competitors for each position. This insures good practice and is an incentive to all the squad to work hard for a regular uniform. More attention has been given to basket ball since football was abolished in the local high school.

Coach Hendershot said that no player would be permitted to enter a game unless he had complied with all the eligibility rules. The faculty has decided that a certain standard of work must be maintained by each player and when the grade in any subject is lower than that required the player is declared ineligible until he brings up all the subjects to the complete satisfaction of the faculty. This rule was adopted and is rigidly adhered to so that none of the players would permit their athletics to interfere with their course of study.

MISS EDITH CAVALL

CALMLY AWAITED DEATH

English Nurse Was Resigned to Her Fate, According to Description Given.

London, Oct. 23.—In a report made by Mr. Cahan, British chaplain, the last moments of Edith Cavell, the British nurse who was shot by a German firing squad are described. The Rev. Cahan gave her spiritual consolation just prior to her tragic death.

The report is transmitted by Brand Whitlock, the American minister at Brussels, to the British foreign office and was made public by the official press bureau.

Mr. Cahan says that he visited Miss Cavell in St. Giles prison on the evening of Oct. 11, after her sentence had been passed in the afternoon. "She was perfectly calm and resigned," the chaplain writes. "Her first words were upon a matter concerning herself personally, but the solemn assurance which accompanied them was made expressly in the light of God and eternity. She wished all her friends to know that she willingly gave her life for her country."

"I have no fear nor shrinking," she said, "I have seen death so often it is not strange or fearful to me. I thank God for this ten weeks of quiet before the end. My life always has been hurried and full of difficulty. This time of rest has been a great mercy to me. They have all been very kind to me, but this I say, standing as I do, in view of God and eternity, I realize that patriotism is not enough. I must have no hatred or bitterness toward any one."

"We partook of holy communion together and she received the gospel message of consolation with all her heart. At the close of the little service I began to repeat the words of 'Abide With Me.' She joined softly in to the end. We sat quietly talking until the time came for me to go. She gave me parting messages for her relatives and friends, spoke of her soul's need at the moment and received the assurance of God's word as only a Christian can do. Then I said, good by. She smiled and said, 'We shall meet again.' The German military chaplain was with her at the end and afterward gave her a Christian burial."

ANOTHER REGIMENT IS SENT TO TEXAS BORDER

Secret Service Department Called Upon to Assist in Hunting for Raiders.

Washington, Oct. 23.—The Twenty-eighth regiment of infantry has been ordered to Harlingen, Texas, by Secretary Garrison as an immediate result of the Mexican raid near Brownsville, in which three United States soldiers were killed.

This regiment is now at Galveston. It will operate on the border under Major-General Funston's orders. The Twenty-third infantry, now at Jacksonville, Fla., in connection with the national rifle matches, will be returned to Galveston to be in reserve in case more troops are needed on the border.

The war department received a further report from Captain Frank McCoy, who brought up additional forces and dispersed the band which made an attack on the detachment of soldiers at Ojo De Agua.

Following a conference between Attorney-General Gregory and Secretary Garrison it was announced that a large additional number of special agents from the department of justice will be sent to the border districts to co-operate with the military forces. This step was taken on recommendation of General Funston, who expressed the view that such men were needed there to ferret out the identity of the raiders and their organizations. The war department, it is pointed out, is doing all it can in the existing circumstances. The governor of Texas has not called on the federal government for aid, so no state of martial law exists and the state authorities are really in full control. The military forces are therefore limited to patrolling duty.

IMPROVEMENTS TO BE MADE ON STORE ROOM

Remodeling Plans Caused Hoover's Furniture Store to Arrange for Enormous Sale.

Extensive improvements in the interior of the room occupied by the F. E. Hoover Furniture Co. will be made this fall and will result in much additional room. Several partitions will be removed and a large room will be erected as a second floor. The second story room will be used to display bedroom furniture. An entrance will also be cut on Cincinnati avenue which will be used for removing furniture when it is received or sold.

In order that the big stock which is now carried by that store may be reduced before the remodeling begins, an enormous sale was planned and began today. The store did a splendid business throughout the day. The prices have been greatly reduced, according to H. S. Prophet, the manager. "We are offering some unexcelled bargains in furniture," he stated, "as we want to reduce this stock before the workmen begin remodeling our room whereby we will be afforded more floor space and better facilities for showing our stock."

The local store is one of nineteen owned by F. E. Hoover & Company and scattered throughout Indiana, Ohio and Michigan. The firm buys in large quantities and the manufacturers make unusually low bids to get the business. So far as the purchasing end is concerned, it is stated, the nineteen stores are operated as one. Twice each year Mr. Prophet meets Mr. Hoover and the managers of the other eighteen stores and they visit the factories in Grand Rapids and Chicago and select what they desire for their local trade.

FOOD CRISIS IN GERMANY

Shortage Cause of Riots in Cities Throughout the Empire.

New York, Oct. 23.—In spite of the official assurance of the German government's confidence that it is able to cope with all problems growing out of a shortage of food supplies, neutral travelers returning from Germany declare that the food crisis in Germany is most serious and that while the Kaiser's armies are fighting successfully all the leading powers of Europe, the Germans at home are experiencing very bitter suffering as a result of the ever increasing prices of food products.

The shortage in necessary articles of diet is acutely felt, according to these travelers, throughout the empire and riots of grave proportions are occurring in the leading cities.

These statements are borne out by the German newspapers, which have been permitted to publish accounts of the scenes in the markets.

ALLIES SHELL BULGAR COAST

Russian Fleet Bombards Black Sea Coast.

NEAR TURKISH FRONTIERS

Reported Serbians Repulsed Germans on Northern Frontier With Loss to Enemy of 60,000 Men—Bulgars Make Progress.

London, Oct. 23.—The allied warships have opened fire on Bulgaria's Aegean sea coast, which is concentrated upon the thirty-eight-mile stretch between Dedeagatch and Port Lagos.

Of the seaports under fire in the centers upon Dedeagatch, the Bulgarian outlet to the Aegean. It is near Turkish frontiers.

Simultaneously, it is gathered from bits of uncensored dispatches that the Russian Black sea fleet has begun a bombardment of the Bulgarian Black Sea coast, especially the ports of Varna and Burgas.

The Bulgarian armies of invasion in Serbia made important headway in their efforts to gain complete control of the Salonica-Nish railway. They captured, the German war office claims, Kumanovo and Kiprili, both in the southern sector of that railway and are closing in on Uskub, twelve miles southwest of Kumanovo, and about twenty-five miles northwest of Kiprili.

A message from Nish to the Serbian legation in Athens says that the Serbians have repulsed the Austro-Germans on the north Serbian frontier, with enemy casualties of 60,000.

It is denied in this message that the Bulgarians captured Vranja, Vlasatine and Inajavotof. The message, however, confirms that Istip and Kozane are in the hands of the Bulgars.

Berlin claims that, besides taking the two cities on the vital Serbian railroad line, the Bulgarian forces fighting further south, not far from the Greek frontier, have driven the Serbians across the Vardar southwest of Strumnitza.

The German war office claims that General Koevess' Austro-German troops have reached the Arnejevo line as far as the Statina mountains, while General von Gallwitz is reported to have advanced to Selevac, Savinovac, Fronovca, and a point north of Ranorac.

The Greek government has informed the quadruple entente powers that it does not see its way clear at present to accept the proposals, including the cession of Cyprus and other concessions, offered in return for Greek military co-operation with Serbia.

It is believed here that public opinion in Greece, which is said to favor the allies, will compell a favorable decision.

RUSSIANS WIN TWO BATTLES

Offensive Gains Further Success With German Invaders.

London, Oct. 23.—The Russian offensive southeast of Baronowitsch, between Brest-Litovsk and Minsk, gained a further success in the crossing of the upper Sura and the capture of the heights opposite the village of Mazourki. The Russians took 1,588 prisoners and three machine guns in the assault.

In eastern Galicia also the czar's troops captured parts of the Austro-German positions in the region of Novo Olexintez, north of Ternopol, and in the course of the day made over 7,600 prisoners in this section. The booty included two Howitzers.

The passenger train had gathered considerable speed as it neared the belt railroad. The switch engine was inbound. Hamilton's skull was crushed.

This would compel his resignation as warden of the prison.

Work will start immediately on the factory, which will cost $35,000, and the company will be incorporated for $200,000. Harry L. Kitzelman of Muncie is said to be Fogarty's partner in the project. Several other leading business men of the state also are stockholders in the firm.

MUST PAY $2,000 HEART BALM

Man, Fifty-Four, Had Never Been Kissed by Any Woman.

Minneapolis, L. I., Oct. 23.—One of the saddest stories of tongue or pen is to be informed that one must pay $2,000 to a woman's husband for alienating her affections when he never had been kissed, even by a woman. That is the weight of woe that burdens Warren A. Brown, a wealthy and sedate bachelor of Hempstead.

"I shall go to jail rather than pay that verdict," he said after the jury had returned.

"It is preposterous. Although fifty-four years old, I never have been kissed by a woman and never held a woman's hand."

RUSSIA PURCHASES LUMBER

SUMMER CAPITOL BEAUTIFUL HOME; JERSEY TO GIVE WILSONS WELCOME

President to Direct His 1916 Campaign From "White House by the Sea." Shadow Lawn One of the Most Magnificent Places on Entire Atlantic Coast.

IN 1912, when Woodrow Wilson was nominated and elected president of the United States, he directed his campaigns from the coast of New Jersey. And when he is busy with the 1916 campaign as leader of his party he will occupy a house near the same spot.

The action of the president in agreeing to rent Shadow Lawn, the estate at Elberon, N. J., near Long Branch, has brought joy to the hearts of the Jerseyites.

Shadow Lawn, the millionaire home of the late John A. McCall, has had a varied career since it was built some thirteen years ago.

Mr. McCall was president of the New York Life Insurance company, and Shadow Lawn was considered one of the most beautiful summer homes in America. It stands on a hill in the center of about forty acres of rolling land which have been beautified by every art of the landscape gardener. The house is of colonial design, from plans by Henry Edward Creiger, and the numerous observation towers, outhouses and barns are all built in perfect harmony with the main structure.

Approaching the house from the main entrance to the grounds through a wide branching stairways of marble connect the two stories.

As its popular title implies, the mansion is white, with a red tiled roof which supports two pavilions, surrounded with fluted columns. Over the north portico is a spacious roof garden. The interior is a blend of Italian renaissance and English gothic and classic renaissance styles. The drawing room is adorned with rich portieres, and its woodwork is of decorated ivory enamel. The dining room is marked by ornate fluted columns, embellished doors and mantel, with dark mahogany woods for a background. The billiard room, done in panels of red, with beams and elaborate tracery of black oak, is a treasure room of gothic emblazonry and medieval carved figures. A long promenade on the roof adds a characteristic of a battlemented castle.

On the main floor at the entrance is a hall measuring 75 by 85 feet, with a stairway twenty-five feet wide at the base to the mezzanine floor and branching out into a promenade gallery surrounding an open court 20 by 55 feet, surmounted by a glass dome. On this gallery and the one on the third floor open the bedroom suits. The suit to be used by the president and his bride had the most beautiful voice in America. In explanation of this statement he said that Mrs. White, although possessed of a beautiful high soprano voice, refused to sing in public, so he hoped that the beauty of the mezzanine floor would appeal to her and result in her singing to her friends at least. White occupied the house for a season and entertained lavishly, but in 1908 failed to meet his obligations on the property, and it was sold at sheriff's sale on May 25, 1908, to Myron H. Oppenheim for $108,000 above a $100,000 mortgage held by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. White stated that he wanted to start a bungalow colony on the property, but the scheme never materialized.

Offered to Taft.

In April, 1909, a syndicate of prominent Jerseyites attempted to raise by subscription enough to buy the property and present it to the United States government as a summer White House. It was also offered to President Taft at the same time for the summer. After receiving the delegation and listening to its offer President Taft said that "he would have to consult a higher authority," which he later admitted to be his wife.

While these negotiations were pending the announcement of the sale of the property to J. B. Greenhut was made, and the matter was dropped.

Mr. Greenhut, who retains the ownership of the property, has spent thousands of dollars during recent years in beautifying the property and adding costly trees and shrubs.

The Jersey coast "pointed with pride" to an estate which Captain Greenhut had developed until it was one of the finest in the country, and there is no doubt that in accepting Shadow Lawn as a "summer White House" President Wilson has gone far toward bringing to a realization the hope of long stand-massive gateway, there is a series of wide granite steps, from either side of which extends in a semicircle a granite balustrade. Beyond is a circular portico of stone, the roof of which, on a level with the roof of the house, is supported by classic stone columns. Groups of evergreen trees soften the lines of the gateway and portico, and the walls of the house are covered with trailing vines.

Spacious Hallways.

The main hallway is lofty and spacious. The grand social hall measures 70 by 85 feet and the grand staircase is 25 feet wide at the base. There is a large mezzanine floor, furnished as a music room, and on the next floor there is a promenade hall, surrounding an open court, lighted from above through an art glass dome. The promenade on the third floor is used as an art gallery, the chambers, dressing rooms and bathrooms opening off the hallway.

Ivory color predominates in the social hall, the fluted pillars, arches and balustrades being of that hue. The walls are hung with green tapestries, having Greek border effects, and the color scheme is carried out in the portieres, rugs and hangings. The two enormous mantels are of mahogany, as are the folding doors. The electric fixtures are pale Pompeian bronze filled with amber colored glass. Antique bronze vases flank the main staircase.

Throughout the house the furnishings are most artistic and expensive. The drawing room is done in Nile green, silver and ivory and has an Italian renaissance mantelpiece, while the billiard room is finished in English gothic style, all the woodwork being elaborately carved.

Off the central hall are drawing rooms, dining rooms, billiard and card rooms. The bedrooms are arranged around the second floor galleries. Very is finished in old blue with a ceiling of cream white and ivory woodwork.

Mr. McCall Sells Estate.

Mr. McCall occupied the residence for a couple of seasons, and while he was ill, just after the famous insurance investigation, Myron H. Oppenheim began negotiations for the purchase of the property. The transaction dragged along until just before Mr. McCall's death, when it was closed. It was rumored at the time that Mr. Oppenheim paid not more than $300,000.

When Mr. Oppenheim took possession of the property he announced his intention of turning it into a country club. Members were to subscribe $2,000 each, and the membership was to be not more than 500. Several men went into the scheme, and it was to be called the Brook Lawn Country club. However, Mr. Oppenheim found difficulty in securing enough members, so the plan was abandoned.

In August, 1906, Abraham White, then president of the De Forest Wireless Telegraph company, visited Shadow Lawn and, after looking over the place very carefully, opened negotiations for its purchase.

In 1896 Mr. White had practically no money. He invested 44 cents in postage stamps and, with an audacity that astonished Wall street, borrowed $1,000,000 on nothing more than notes signed by himself and his wife, getting part of the amount from Russell Sage. With this he made a gold deposit required on an issue of government 4s then being put out by Secretary of the Treasury Carlisle, putting in bids around 110 and 112. He got the bonds and made a big cleanup.

House Again Sold.

About the middle of August, 1906, White closed negotiations for Shadow Lawn, paying, it was said at the time, $500,000. At that time he said he bought the property because his wife ing held by many that some day Shadow Lawn will be the official summer home of presidents of the United States for all time.

Mr. McCall bought the fifty-eight acres of farm land more than a dozen years ago for $100,000 from the Hulick, Abbott, Henderson and Paddock estates, a stretch of elevated land within sight of the ocean near Long Branch. A single story farmhouse stood near the middle of Mr. McCall's new holdings, and away from the farmhouse stretched unattractive cornfields.

Henry Edward Criegee was the architect selected by Mr. McCall for the home he had in view. While plans were in the making Mr. McCall assembled landscape gardeners and regiments of laborers. The cornfield hummocks disappeared. The surface ground was turned over, rich subsoil was spread, and daily the cornfields disappeared to give way to drives and terraces, walks and lily ponds, lawns, shade trees and beautiful old fashioned gardens.

In the middle of the acres arose the mansion of classic columns approached by wide granite steps. The portico leads into a wide central hall surrounded by two tiers of wide galleries, the hall being covered with a brilliantly colored glass dome 100 feet above the floor.

"CERTIFICATES OF GLORY."

French Proposal to Grant Them For Lives Lost in War.

The creation of a "certificate of glory" to perpetuate in families the memory of members who died for their country in the war now in progress, suggested by Deputy Carre-Bonvalst, is being considered by the French cabinet.

It is proposed to have the certificate a parchment on which the name of the hero would be inscribed, with an expression of the nation's gratitude signed by the president of the republic.

MELLEN GIVES NEW DETAILS

Testimony Against New Haven Men Damaging.

SHOWS MONOPOLY GROWTH

Territory Divided Under Agreement

Signed at the Home of Late J. P. Morgan—Important Documents Are Identified.

New York, Oct. 23.—In the case against the New Haven men, Charles S. Mellen continued as a witness for the government.

The Sound lines agreement, executed in 1881, was regarded as the most substantial victory so far for the government, and it went in against the protests and arguments of nearly all the counsel for the defense. It regulates rates for all New England lines and prescribes a penalty of $3,000 for violations. Other resolutions and letters introduced referred to the action of the New Haven in taking over the various lines during 1892 and 1893.

The old so-called Corsair agreement, dividing territory with the Boston and Maine, came up and it was shown by Mr. Mellen not to be the Corsair agreement at all, but one signed at the home of the late J. P. Morgan. Mr. Swacker turned to his maps and with Mr. Mellen's aid showed the gradual spread of the Red New Haven lines over New England, starting with the little 500-mile smear. First came the spread due to taking over the New York, Providence and Boston, and the Providence and Boston Steamship company. Then came the Hossatic railroad and its leased lines to extend the thin red line. After that growth of the Boston and Maine when it took over the Connecticut River road. After that the Old Colony railroad, as well as the steamship company of that name, all of them during 1892 and 1893.

The former president of the New Haven identified documents, some of which the government representatives believe, will go a long way toward establishing a conspiracy to monopolize the transportation facilities of New England.

Mr. Swacker confined his witness to these dates all during the day, which meant, as he said later, that Mr. Mellen will be on the stand for some time yet, on this first appearance.

CHAPTER X.

For a few moments Bad Anse Havey did not speak, and Juanita dropped almost flumpily into the chair he had pushed forward. Havey paced the narrow length of the room, pausing once to gaze down at the rigid body of the dead man. At last he came and took his place squarely before her by the hearth, both hands thrust deep into his coat-pockets. A long black lock fell over his forehead and he impatiently shook it back.

"In the first place," he began in his deliberate voice, "ye've said some things that I doubt not ye believe to be true, but they're most all of 'em lies."

He flung back his head and looked squarely down at her, his eyes narrow and snapping, but with his voice pitched to a low cadence. "Ye've said things that, since ye're a woman, I ain't got any way of answerin'. The only thing I asks is thet ye harken to what I want to say."

"Go on; I'm listening with humble attention."

"Ye've called me a murderer an' a hirer of murderers. That's a lie. I've never killed no man that didn't have his face t'ords me, nor one that wasn't armed. I've never hired any man killed."

"Ye've likened me to Milt McBriar. Thet was a lie, too. Ye've said some right bitter things, an' I can't answer ye. If ye was a man I could."

"And if I were a man, what would ye say to me?" she inquired.

"I reckon," his words came with an icy coldness—"I'd be pretty liable to tell ye to eternally go to hell."

"And if I were a man," she promptly retorted, "I'd endeavor with every ounce of manhood I had in me to see thatt you and the others like you did go there. I'd try to see thatt you went the appropriate way—through the trap of the gallows."

She saw his attitude stiffen and his face flush brick-red to the cheek-bones. But after a few seconds she heard him speak with a fair counterfeit of amusement.

"Wall, it 'pears like we've both got to be right smart disappointed—on account of your bein' a woman."

And this time it was she who flushed.

"I don't hardly know why I'm takin' the trouble to make any statement to ye," Havey went on. "It ain't hardly worth while. Ye came up here with your mind fixed. Ye've read a lot of hearsay stuff in newspapers, an' facts ain't hardly apt to count for much. I reckon afore ye decides to hang me ye'll let me have my day in court, won't ye?"

"Before your own judge and your own jury?" she naively asked him. "That's the way you usually have your day in court, isn't it, Mr. Havey?"

"It's you that's settin' as the court just now," he reminded her. "I reckon ye can judge for yerself how much I owns ye."

In spite of herself she smiled.

"I rather think I can," she admitted. "Approximately, at least."

"I think I understand ye better than ye do me," he went on slowly. "I think ye're plumb honest in all the notions ye fatched up here, despite the fact thatt most of 'em are wrong. Ye've done come with a heap of money to teach folks whatt you 'low they ought to know. Ye didn't know thatt they'd rather have ignorance than charity. Ye think thatt you an' Almighty God have gone in partners for the regeneration of these mountains, where no woman has ever been insulted an' no man has to bar his door against thievery; where all we ask is to be left alone. I reckon every day ye're wonderin' 'Is my halo on straight?' It's nat'ral enough thatt ye should be right scornful of a man thatt some newspaper reporter has called a murderer."

His voice fell away, and Juanita heard again the beating of the hammers out in the barn. "Is that all?" she asked, but the man shook his head and stood there looking down on her until under the spell of his unusual eyes she felt like screaming out: "Talk if you want to, but for heaven's sake don't look at me. I can't stand it!"

"Mebby ef ye'd stopped to think about things," he resumed, "ye'd have seen thatt I didn't have no quarrel with your plans. Mebby I might even have been able to help ye. I could have told ye for one thing thatt whether the ways here be right or wrong, they've done stood for two hundred years. Ye've got to go slow changin' 'em. Ye can't hardly pull up a poplar saplin' with one jerk. Thar's a tap-root underneath it thet runs down half-way to hell."

"If people hyarabouts is distrustful of furrin teachers an' ways, it's because of the samples they've had. A feller came here once from the settlements to teach school. He was a smart, upstandin' feller an' well liked. A man by the name of Trevor.

"You Have Taken the Boy—Very Well, I Mean to Take the Girl."

"When folks found out thatt he was locatin' coal an' buyin' their land fer next to nothin'—robbin' them of their birthright—it looked right smart like somebody might kill him. I warned him away to save his life. Ye've got to make folks forget about Trevor afore ye makes 'em trust you."

"Thank you," said Juanita coldly. "I'll try to show them thatt I'm not another Trevor. Are you warning me away to save my life?"

"I'm to'able ignorant," went on the man, "but I've read a few books, an' one of 'em told the story of the Trojan hoss. I wanted ter see whatt kind of a critter you was a ridin' into these hills. I come to this cabin the night ye got here to find out."

"I thought so," she quietly answered. "I was to be inspected like an immigrant, and the lord of the land was to decide whether or not I should be sent back."

"Put it thatt way if ye've a mind to, ne answered. "Ye was comin' to be a schoolteacher here. Well, I'd done been a schoolteacher here. I see your smile—ye're wonderin' whatt I could teach. Maybe, after all, it's a right good idea to teach A B C's before ye starts in with algebra an' rhetoric. Ye wouldn't have me as a friend, an' I reckon thatt won't break my heart."

"Then," said the girl, looking up and meeting his eyes with a flash of challenge, "I shall endeavor to get along without your favor. We could hardly have met on common ground at best. I shall teach the ten commandments, includin' 'Thou shalt not kill.' I shall teach thatt he hid behind a bush and shoot an unsuspectin' enemy is cowardly and despicable. I would not be willing to tell them thatt they must live and die vassals to feudal tyranny."

"No," he agreed, "ye couldn't hardly outrage your holy conscience by tryin' to teach 'em things in a way they could understand, could ye? If Jeb had come to ye, like he came to me, askin' the name of the man he sought to kill, ye would have said ter him, 'It was so-and-so, but ye mustn't harm him, because somebody writ in a book two thousand years ago thatt killin' is a sin.' An' the hell of it is ye'd 'low such talk would satisfy him."

"Ye couldn't do no such wicked thing as to stop an' reflect thatt he's a mountain boy, an' thatt for two hundred years the blood in his veins has been a comin' down to him full of grudge-nursin' an' hate. Ye couldn't make allowances for the fact thatt he wasn't hatched in a barnyard to peck at corn-cobs an' berries, but in an eagle's nest—thatt he's a bird of prey. Ye couldn't consider the fact thatt the killin' instinct runs in the current of his blood an' was drunk in at his mother's breast. Ye'd just teach barnyard lessons to young eagles, an' thatt's why ye might as well go home." "I'm grateful for this teacher's course," said Juanita hotly, "and I'm not going home."

Anse Havey went on: "But I know thatt boy. I know thatt if I'd talked thattaway he'd just about have gone out in the la'rel an' got somebody. Hit might not a' been the right teller, and he might have found thatt out later. I reckon ye never had a father murdered, did ye?"

"Hardly," answered the girl with a scornful toss of her head. "You see, I wasn't reared among gun-fighters."

"Well, I have," responded the man. "I was in the legislature down at Frankfort when it happened, a-helpin' to make the laws thatt govern this state. I was fer them laws in theory—but when thatt word came I paired off with a Republican, so's not to lose my vote on the floor, an' I come back here to these hills an' got thatt feller. I reckon I ought to be ashamed to tell ye thatt, but I'm so plumb ignorant thatt I can't feel it. I knew how Jeb felt an' so I held him off with a promise to wait. Of course ye couldn't accept the help of a man like thatt."

He turned and withdrew his hands from his pockets.

"I'm through," he added, "an' I'm obleeged to ye fer harkenin' to me."

"There is something in your point of view, Mr. Havey," she acknowledged. "But it is all based on twisted and distorted principle."

"I don't think myself a saint. I guess I'm pretty weak. My first appeal to you was pure weakness. But I stand for ideas thatt the world has acknowledged to be right, and for thatt reason I am going to win. Thatt is why, although I'm a girl, with none of your physical power, and no gun-fighters at my back, you are secretly afraid of me. Thatt is why you are making unfair war on me. I stand for the implacable force of civilization thatt must sooner or later sweep you away and utterly destroy your dominance."

For the first time Bad Anse Havey's face lost its impassiveness. His eyes clouded and became puzzled, surprised.

"I reckon I don't hardly follow ye," he said. "If ye wants it to be enemies all right, but I ain't never made no war on ye. I don't make war on women-folks, an' besides I wouldn't make a needless war now. All I've got to do is to give ye enough rope an' watch ye hang yerself."

"If you think thatt," she demanded, with a quick upheaving of anger in her pupils, "why did you feel it necessary to prevent my buying land? Why do you coerce your vassals, under fear of death, to decline my offers? Why, if my school means no menace, do you refuse it standing room to start its fight?"

The man's pose stiffened. "Who told ye I'd hindered anybody from sellin' ye land?"

"Wherever I inquire it is the same thing. They must ask permission of Bad Anse Havey before they can do as they wish with their own."

"By heaven, thatt's another lie," he said shortly. "But I reckon ye believe thatt, too. I did advise folks hereabouts against sellin' to strangers, but thatt was afore ye come."

He paced the length of the room a while, then halted before her.

"Some of thatt property," he went on, and this time his voice was passionate in its earnestness, "has enough coal an' timber on it to make its owners rich some day. Have ye seen any of the coal-minin' sections of these hills? Well, go an' have a look. Ye won't find any mountaineer richer fer the development. Ye'll find 'em plundered an' cheated an' robbed of their homes by your civilized furriner. I've done aimed ter perfect my folks against bein' looted. I aims to go on perfectin' 'em."

"Ignorance won't protect them," she insisted. "I told ye we was distrustful of furriners," went on Havey. "Some day there'll be a bigger war here than thet."

"Who Told You I Hindered Anybody From Selling You Land?"

Havey-McBriar war, Ye've seen some thin' of thatt. Thatt other war will be with your people, an' when it comes there won't be any McBriars or Haveys. We'll all be mountaineers standin' together an' holdin' whatt God gave us. God knows I hate Milt McBriar an' his tribe—hate 'em with all the power of hatin' thatt's in me—an' I'm a mountain man. But Milt's people an' my people have one thing in common. We're mountain men, an' these hills are ours. We have the same killin' instinct when men seek to rob us. We want to be let alone, an'

if we fight amongst ourselves it ain't nothin' to the way we'll fight, shoulder to shoulder an' back to back, against the robbers from down below."

The man paused, and as Juanita looked into his blazing eyes she shuddered, for it seemed thatt the killing instinct of which he spoke was burning there. She thought of nothing to say, and he continued:

"It's war between families now—but when your people come—come to buy for nothin' and fatten on our starvation, we men of the mountains will forget thatt, an' I reckon we'll fight together like all damnation against the rest. Thet's why I'm counsellin' folks not to sell heedless."

"Then you did not forbid your people to sell to me?" inquired the girl.

"Why, in heaven's name, should I make war on ye?" he suddenly demanded. "Does a man fight children? We don't fight the helpless up here in the hills."

"Possibly," she suggested with a trace of irony, "when you learn thatt I'm not so helpless you won't be so merciful."

"We'll wait till thatt time comes," said the man shortly. He paused for a moment, then went on: "Helpless! Why, heaven knows, ma'am, I pity ye. Can't ye see whatt odds ye're contendin' against? Can't ye see thatt ye're fightin' God's hills and sandstone an' winds an' thunder? Can't ye see ye're tryin' ter take out of men's veins the fire in their blood—the fire thatt's been burnin' there for two centuries? Ye're like a little child tryin' ter pull down a jail-house. Ye're singin' lullaby songs to the thunder. Yes, I feel right sorry fer ye, but I ain't a-fightin' ye."

"I'm doing none of those things," she answered with a defiant blaze in her eyes. "I'm only trying to show these people thatt their ignorance is not necessary; thatt it's only part of a scheme to keep them vassals. You talk about the wild, free spirit of the mountain men. I think thatt free men will listen to thatt argument."

Anse laughed. "Change 'em!" he repeated, disregarding the slur of her last speech. "Why if ye don't give it up and go back to your birds thatt pick att berries, do you know whatt will happen to ye? I'll tell ye. Thar will be a change, but it won't be in us. It'll be in you. You'll be mountanized."

"Ye can't live where the storms come from an' where the rivers are born an' not have their spirit gett into your blood. Ye may think ye're in partners with God, but I reckon ye'll find the hills are bigger thant you be. How much land do ye need?"

"Because I aim to see ye gett it. Ye say I'm scared of ye. I aim to show ye how much I'm scared. I aim to let ye go your own fool way an' flounder in your own quicksand. An' if nobody won't sell ye whatt ye want let me know an', by Almighty God, I'll make ye a free gift of a farm an' I'll build your school myself. Thet's how much I'm scared of ye. I've tried to be friends with ye, an' ye won't have it. Now just go as far as ye feels inclined an' see how much I mind ye."

He turned abruptly on his heel and went out, quietly closing the door behind him.

INDIANA'S GAME WITH GENERALS HOLDS STAGE

Walter Voss, of Crimson Team, Says I. U. is Expecting Hard Game, But Are Going to Win.

Walter Voss, one of the regulars of the Indiana University foot ball eleven, is home from Bloomington to spend the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Voss. The Crimson team is idle today, no game being scheduled. This will give the men two weeks of rest in preparation for the big game at Indianapolis next Saturday, when they will clash with Washington and Lee, of Virginia, in the first contest ever staged between the two schools.

Voss states that the Indiana team is in good shape and while it is expecting a hard game with the Generals, it is confident of winning. The Virginians have played some of the strongest teams in the South this year, and are reputed to be a strong aggregation. According to reports, it will be the old style of football against the new game, as the Southerners, who are mostly hefty fellows, are relying on the old tandem formations through the center of the line, while the open running and passing is being used by Coach Childs' men. Jim Thorpe, the great Indian athlete, who is assisting Childs and giving his attention to the back field men, has developed an offense that it is believed will puncture the Washington and Lee line, and the Indiana line, which held Chicago on their one foot line in the game with the Maroons, should be able to look after the defensive.

A large crowd of Indiana alumni is expecting to go from here to see the game next Saturday, and indications are that the crowd will be the largest that ever saw a football game in Indiana. Gov. Ralston will attend the game, and an invitation has been extended to the Governor of Virginia to be his guest at the game.

Joe Swope, who but recently joined the squad, may get into the game next week, as he has been showing great form in his few workouts during the last week.

SENIOR CLASS AND TEACHERS ON TRIP TO BROWN COUNTY

Ideal Day for an Enjoyable Outing Among the Alleghanies of Indiana.

The senior class of the Seymour high school with the high school teachers, including Prof. and Mrs. T. A. Mott, left in nine automobiles this morning for a day's outing in Brown county. About sixty people made up the party. They were served a chicken dinner at one of the Nashville hotels. After dinner they visited the teachers' bungalow on Linke hill, and other points of interest about Brown county. There are several artists' studios near and these will be visited. The return trip will be made this evening. The weather has been ideal for the outing and both pupils and teachers are having a delightful trip.

One of the jaunty little cars of the Columbus Street Railway Co., which had been bouncing up and down the Washington street bumps until its mechanical system had become sadly impaired, suffered a complete breakdown while being towed through the city this morning enroute to New Albany, where it was evidently being sent in search of complete rest and quietness, after its strenuous career in transporting the seething traffic of Orinoco and Maple Grove to and from the great white way. When the car, which was being pulled by a freight car, reached the B. and O. crossing, an axle snapped and it was necessary to back it to the interurban barn where it will be repaired and taken on to New Albany.

Mrs. Henry Siebenbergen was hostess to the members of her Sunday School class of the First Methodist church Friday evening at her home on East Third street.

LOSS ON EVANSVILLE WAREHOUSE IS $200,000

Men Entrapped in the Burning Building Are Rescued From Falling Walls.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 23.—The building of the Evansville Warehouse company in the western part of this city, was practically destroyed by fire at a loss of almost $200,000. Several narrow escapes were reported among the employees. Miss Ada Holzgrafe, employed in the office, was ignorant of the fact that the building was afire and ran from the office just before the rear wall fell. Thirteen men employed on the second floor in the space occupied by the Midland Mirror company escaped with difficulty.

Firemen kept their streams concentrated on two tons of carbide and 300 barrels of whiskey which were stored in the building, fearing an explosion. A mass of wires was broken down by falling walls and endangered firemen. Assistant Chief Wilder caused the power house supplying the entire business district to shut off power until the men had been rescued. The storage company's building was along the L. & N. railroad yards and long strings of freight cars, some loaded, were for a time in danger. The John A. Reitz saw mill, one of the largest in this region, was protected by employees, who formed a fire brigade.

The blaze originated on the third floor of the building, where groceries were stored. The fire department had not completed an investigation, but the origin is believed to have been in defective wiring.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Ella Flagg Young, for six years superintendent of schools has announced that she would resign on Dec. 8, when the regular school election will be held. ANNA BELLE Enjoys Hallowe'en

Dear Friends:-I know you enjoy Hallowe'en stunts, so I'm going to show you some of the things Marjorie and I thought of this year. Our mothers helped us with the witch costumes and of course Brother Harold had to get something funny so he made up a big pumpkin mask and I tell you I really looked scary. In your next letter tell me some of the things you did, for I'm sure they will be interesting.

Everyone of my friends who have written lately report SEWING SOCIETY work progressing just fine and of course, this makes me very happy as you know I'm so interested in our great work for the poor girls and boys. If you haven't as yet joined our happy band of good girls and boys now is the very time to do so. We're always so glad to welcome good members like you, so if you'll write me care this paper, enclose a two-cent stamp for postage, and I'll be only too glad to send you a Certificate of Membership with instructions. Hoping to hear from you real soon and that you're enjoying good health also doing well in your school work, I am your loving,

Anna Belle
